OCTOBER LETTER FROM THE EDITORS

It is officially Autumn. We often talk about it beginning to feel like Autumn when the nights start to draw in and temperatures start feeling cooler.

This year Autumn began on Sunday 22nd September and ends on Saturday 21st December 2024. Autumn is also known as Fall, and on the 27th October the clocks "Fall" back which means we can all look forward to an extra hour to use as we wish.

Whatever you decide to do, have a great October and keep the photos and stories coming in.

Julian.

I love this time of the year, an extra hour in bed relaxing, fresh mornings and looking forward to the Spooky Season!!

Plan ahead and decide how you will use the extra hour. If you cycle to work, remember your lights and stay bright, be seen and be safe.

As the nights draw in and the weather cools down, it is great to get the warmer clothes out and enjoy a brisk walk. You may wish to start getting involved at your local parkrun/walk, take in the Autumn colour changes and enjoy nature at a great time of the year. Whatever you do stay safe, relax and enjoy our publication.

FROM OFFICE TO TWO TOWN CENTRE HOMES, THE JOURNEY BEGINS

People are attracted to Beverley to learn about its history and architecture, understanding how the Town has transformed over the years.

On Lairgate, a building is about to start its next journey, having originally been built as the Beverley Savings Bank in 1843 with fantastic Greek Ionic Pilasters taking pride of place. The transformation is about to begin.

This Grade II Listed building, which gets a mention in the Pevsner architectural guides of England is to undergo an exciting transformation blending historic charm with modern functionality.

We are advised the project will carefully preserve the building's unique architectural features while introducing a dynamic fusion of old and new that honours the building's heritage while breathing new life into the space ready to become two new homes, for new owners to enjoy and create a new history.

Stay tuned for updates on this remarkable journey of conservation, innovation, and thoughtful design - "Watch this Space".

CLUB PHOTOGRAPHY EXHIBITION HAS "SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE"

The Viewfinder Photographic Society's popular annual exhibition returns to The Ferguson Fawsitt in Walkington during October with the usual impressive array of images that include landscape and wildlife photographs captured both locally and from around the world.

The Society's Chairman, David Marshall said; "The feedback we received last year from Walkington residents was very complimentary and spurs on our members to keep improving.

The range of images they submit for display is always diverse - there really is something for everyone".

Admission to the exhibition, which is in the venue's function room, is free and visitors will be able to browse the pictures and buy from stalls selling cards, prints and gift items.

Copies of the Society's book entitled 'Outstanding', containing around 200 stunning local photographs, will also be on sale at the exhibition.

The Viewfinder Photographic Society is a friendly club of enthusiasts who meet regularly to support each other, exchange ideas and share expertise. It provides a place for members to learn more about their photography by being with others who share their passion.

ROAD CLOSURE, MINSTER WAY / JOCK'S LODGE IMPROVEMENT SCHEME

One lane of Minster Way will be closed for nine months to allow for construction work on the A164 and Jock's Lodge Improvement Scheme.

A half-mile section of the A164 Lincoln Way/Minster Way in Beverley will be closed to westbound traffic - those travelling in the Woodmansey-to-Morrisons supermarket direction - between Ward Way Roundabout and Victoria Roundabout (Morrisons roundabout).

East Riding of Yorkshire Council is to close the lane from Monday 14th October until Saturday 12th July next year. A diversion will be in place.

The eastbound lane of this section of A164 Lincoln Way/Minster Way traffic travelling in the Morrisons-to-Woodmansey direction - will remain open as normal.

The road between the Lincoln Way roundabout and the junction with Dunnock Drive will also be closed to all traffic for the same duration, with a diversion in place.

The closures are necessary to allow for the reconstruction of the Lincoln Way roundabout and the realignment of the road as part of the major project to replace the congested Jock's

Lodge junction on the outskirts of Beverley.

Work on the A164 And Jock's Lodge Improvement Scheme began in January, with completion scheduled for 2026.

Councillor Gary McMaster, the council's cabinet member for housing and infrastructure, said: "I want to thank drivers using this stretch of road for bearing with us while work is carried out on this section of the Jock's Lodge scheme.

"This temporary closure is essential to the overall plan, which is one of the largest construction projects the council has ever undertaken, and it will be a huge benefit to motorists in the long run.

"We know this will cause disruption, but we have tried to keep it to a minimum, and we are pleased we're still able to keep the eastbound lane open"

27TH OCTOBER TURN THE CLOCKS BACK 1HR

On the 27th October the clocks go back one hour at 2am, marking the end of Daylight Saving Time (DST) and the beginning of standard time for the Winter months.

This shift usually occurs on the last Sunday of October, giving an extra hour of sleep but leading to shorter daylight hours.

The main goal is to make better use of daylight during the Winter by having lighter mornings.

While this helps with visibility and energy use, it can also bring earlier sunsets, which changes people's routines as nights become longer and days shorter.

IN THE GARDEN - A WINDOWSILL WITH PURPOSE

Using your windowsill to grow food often seems to be a pointless exercise, but the crops that I have harvested over the last year have been of great use.

A classic example would be Thai basil, which has a very strong and distinctive flavour. This has been added to multiple pasta sauces. A cut and come again salad that has been harvested at least four times before having to be sown again has also given us ample food to eat. There is a tomato called 'Pillar Catch Red' which is a miniature bush variety and because of the aspect of the windowsill has again produced a good crop adding numerous sweet tomatoes to salads.

As you can see in the photograph, I planted only two in this location which was merely an experiment but there will certainly be more planted next year. The crops of tomatoes this year have been varied, but I have still managed to freeze a small amount that will make tomato soup during the Winter period.

From an interior design perspective growing plants on the windowsill injects not only colour but a natural edible image. Lots of different styles of pots can be used giving the kitchen window in this example a strong purpose, it not only looks good but tastes good! The best aspect for growing the salad crops is south west and south east facing, most salad crops prefer not to be in full sun, which if you are also growing outdoors, is a big plus. However, tomatoes particularly like the warmth of the south facing sun and from there will produce a good crop.

The Gardening Calendar

I have just harvested my container grown potatoes. The amount from the containers was not as good as usual however the quality of potatoes is excellent and of ample size. Normally I would have expected at least three more tins from the number of containers I planted but yet I am very pleased with what I have.

It is the time to start harvesting apples, gently hold the apple in the palm of your hand and slightly lift, if the apple breaks from the branch, then it is ready to eat. This year my stepovers have given me an abundance of fruit which was a vast improvement on last year. The cooking apples which I grow in the small kitchen garden in a cordon style have also produced a good crop. If you are thinking of growing apples both for cooking and desert varieties then now is the time to buy bare rooted plants. Growing apples in a cordon style will enable you to fit them into a small garden, giving you both structure and height and of course an excellent edible crop.

The photograph on the right was taken in February last year, so early days but still showing structure. Under the trellis are numerous herbs, Good King Henry (Chenopodium bonus-henricus) which I use as spinach and Sweet cicely (Myrrhis odorata) which has a wonderful aniseed smell and bears pale white umbel shaped flowers which look stunning combined with the foliage of the apple cordons. The garden is once again teeming with wildlife. There are so many sparrows it is impossible to try and count how many there are. The squirrels are back in force as are the blackbirds, and the robins which are my constant gardening companions especially when I am weeding.

Some weeks ago, I was cleaning out the greenhouse, a job which I would say to do as soon as possible. There was a toad sat in the corner that I had not seen for a long time. It enters the greenhouse via a broken piece of wood and fortunately eats any slugs that decide to try and devour my plants. A much-needed asset.

Another job I would say to do if you have the space is create an area to collect fallen leaves in the Autumn. Overtime they become what is termed as leaf mould and can be used as a mulch or soil improver on the beds once they have broken down.

I'VE BEEN THINKING... SAYS COLIN RAYNOR

I'm sure you will have heard the phrase 'An Englishman's home is his castle' many times. It is a proverb originated in law in the early 17th century.

The definition is given as 'a person's house is a place of safety and sanctuary where they have the right to feel secure and free from stress or harm'.

Anybody who has studied the history of England will be aware that over the recent centuries these fine words have been put to the test and in many cases found wanting. On more than one occasion this has been because of warring factions between the people who have inhabited the British Isles and made claims of possession that caused conflicts bringing death and destruction, poverty and homelessness.

The Methodist Church, the United Reform Church and the Baptist Church have called for October 6th to be recognised as Homelessness Sunday four days before World Homelessness Day on Thursday October 10th.

This asks for all of us to recognise that, even in this modern day and age, thousands of people of all ages cannot claim that they have a home they can call their own safe, secure castle as a place of sanctuary.

This column has no intent to have a political bias but it is worth making comments on statements and figures that offer us a picture of the land we all live in.

There is information available that tells us over 3,898 people were said to be living homeless in our country during the period between March 2023 and March 2024.

Since records began (only since 2010) there has been an increase of 120%. London has seen predictably the largest increase from 858 in October 2022 to 1,132 in the Autumn of 2023 and here we are again in October at the start of the Autumn and Winter periods. There are countless reasons why this figure is so high including addiction, mental illness, dysfunctional family life and so on.

All of these factors, and many more, make it extremely difficult to find the most appropriate type of help for each individual as any social worker or charity worker will tell you.

Make no mistake, as I look at these statistics, it saddens me to realise each one represents another human being, maybe of my age, maybe much younger. Perhaps their path of life started in a very normal way like yours and mine but for many of the reasons I have written about above they have not been able to cope and in so many situations had no one to help or advise them.

Living in this modern era, when life moves at such a fast rate, I suggest it is difficult sometimes for the most balanced, educated, financially secure and family orientated individual person to keep up with the demands of daily life.

So during this designated week in early October let us take a moment or two to think about those in our land, and in other parts of the world, who do not have a place where they have 'that safety and sanctuary of life' that so many of us enjoy. Trust also that those who daily seek to help our less fortunate brothers and sisters gain more tangible support from those who have the power to provide it.

SHOULD I SAVE OR INVEST? HOW TO CHOOSE WISELY, AND WELL

When we talk about saving and investing, we generally think of them as the two main ways to set money aside for the future. It can be easy to confuse them as one and the same thing - or think that you should opt for one or the other.

In fact, they're two quite distinct options that you have for aiming to grow your money for your future. The first step to understanding the difference is to ask yourself a series of questions, including:

- How much should or could I put aside?
- How soon might I need it?
- Where should I put it?
- What do I want that money to do for me and my family?

By answering those questions first, you'll be able to decide how much of your money you should be saving, and how much you might want to invest. It's important to understand the difference.

Why should I save?

In its Financial Wellbeing Strategy 2020-2030, the Money and Pensions Service (MaPS) says: "Saving and investing money for later life are similar behaviours, but people can approach these tasks with different mindsets."<sup>1</sup>

Saving is rooted in the 'here and now'. Our current circumstances, income and outgoings, dictate how much we can save in regular contributions. But saving means accepting that there's a trade-off between a likely lower rate of growth, and the reassurance that you've got a cash 'slush fund' handy should you need it at a moment's notice.

Cash - money for the near future

Broadly speaking, saving is about putting money aside in the short-term, for the short-term - whether it's a 'just-in-case' fund, to cope with those unexpected car repairs, and boiler breakdowns or something specific, such as a family holiday, or a new kitchen. Whatever you're saving the money for, it is usually best to ensure at least a portion of your money is in a cash account with no restrictions on withdrawals so you know you can get your hands on funds at short notice if you need to.

Instant or easy-access cash savings are a vital part of your financial resilience. Financial advisers recommend keeping three to six months' salary of 'emergency' money in cash. If you're paying in regularly, and you haven't looked to see how much money you've got in your savings or even current accounts, you may want to check. Too much money sitting in cash accounts isn't always working as hard for you as it could be.

Investing for the long term

Saving for long-term goals is where investments come into play. Investing in things like stocks and shares, or bonds and leaving the money untouched for ten to fifteen years or more, means it has the potential to grow into a bigger sum than it would in a cash account.

Investing money for comfortable retirement is a good example, we don't know the final figure we'll need for the future, since we don't know how long we'll live. But we definitely plan to retire one day - and investing for that day is a long-term financial strategy.

However, investing means you're accepting more risk with the money you put in, since the markets may rise and fall - and so may the value of your investments. But the ups and downs of markets typically even out over the medium to long term (five years or more). And the greater growth potential means your money can benefit from the 'snowballing' effect of compounding too.

Why choose investing?

Stock-market-based investments tend to produce greater growth over the long term due to the risk-reward relationship - by accepting more risk, we have the potential to receive more reward. We can also choose the level of risk we feel comfortable with, by making informed choices about where to invest, and what type of investments to choose, such as bonds and equities.

Investing gives you more control over where your money is, and more choice.

Can I reduce the risk of investing?

In general, investing in the short term (i.e. for three or four years) carries a higher risk than investing for longer-term objectives, since there's less time for an investment to recover value if the market falls. Over the longer-term, investors can ride out market volatility more confidently. Cash saving is a more cautious option, but the returns, although often lower, are more guaranteed.

You have a number of options to reduce your risk and make sure you don't risk more than you're comfortable with - mainly by spreading your investments across different types of assets. This principle is known as diversification.

Feel confident and in control

Financial advice for the future you imagine.

We're here to help you feel in control of your money. Not the other way around.

Navigation Wealth Management is an Appointed Representative of and represents only St. James's Place Wealth Management plc (which is authorised and regulated by the Financial Conduct Authority) for the purpose of advising solely on the group's wealth management products and services, more details of which are set out on the group's website www.sjp.co.uk/products. The 'St. James's Place Partnership' and the titles 'Partner' and 'Partner Practice' are marketing terms used to describe St. James's Place representatives.

Financial advice can give you the best of both worlds

This is where speaking to an adviser can help you understand your short, medium and longer-term goals, and consider the right balance of saving and investing for you.

Ideally, most of us would save for the short term and invest for the medium term (up to five years) and long term, ultimately boosting our confidence in our long-term financial security.

We now recognise that feeling financially confident is a vital part of our wellbeing. A strong, diversified financial plan can help you feel secure and empowered throughout your life.

The value of an investment with St. James's Place will be directly linked to the performance of the funds selected and may fall as well as rise. You may get back less than the amount invested. An investment in equities will not provide the security of capital associated with a deposit account with a bank or building society.

CHANGE IS COMING...

It's that time of the year when the sun is so low in the sky, it's almost impossible to see where you're going, even with the sun visor down.

We're moving into days that are misty and ethereal with the glorious colours of Autumn painting the trees over the Westwood pastures and beyond.

As the nights draw in, we may start to make changes in our daily routine, perhaps going out less in an evening or rather than choosing outdoor activities, maybe head to the theatre or the cinema, the gym or swimming pool.

It is of course part of the human condition to resist or reject change as it can be uncomfortable - there is a safety and predictability in things being the same but conversely, change brings new perspectives, personal growth and new opportunities when embraced. Many children have gone back to school and have changed classes or moved to an entirely new school and this can be daunting, bringing about feelings of anxiety that can disrupt sleep and lead to not wanting to go to school. As the weeks pass, however, new friends are made and what had been strange and scary, now becomes routine and familiar in no time at all.

In a flash, it will be half term with Hull Fair, Halloween and Bonfire Night to look forward to. A little preparation for the forthcoming season can be useful. With shorter days and less daylight our vitamin D levels drop hence lowering the immune system, just at the time when the cold season begins, so make sure you've topped up the medicine cabinet and perhaps add some vitamin D and C supplements to your shopping list.

Other things to prepare for might be how to help your dog or cat through the terrors of bonfire night - maybe speak to the vet to see if they can help. Make sure you've got high visibility clothes and bright lights if you're going to be out and about walking or biking in times of reduced visibility.

Book the car in for a Winter check - many garages offer this for free. Spend some time batch cooking some of your favourite, warming Winter recipes using locally bought seasonal vegetables to pre-prepare stews or pumpkin or spicy parsnip soup or a warming chilli.

Autumn is a good time to challenge yourself by learning a new skill such as dressmaking or a language or maybe volunteering at a local charity such as the food bank or maybe just getting back to reading a good book.

Embrace the changes as Autumn can be a wholesome time to snuggle up at home after enjoying a brisk walk in the crisp air and bright sunshine, and come home to a mug of hot chocolate.

SELLING YOUR HOME? THE LINK IS IN THE DETAIL

Using an independent Personal Estate Agent to present a home for sale offers several key advantages.

Jayne commented "Quite often we have more flexibility to tailor marketing strategies to highlight the unique features of a home. Typically direct, one-on-one communication, ensuring a more focused and committed approach to selling your home, with honest feedback".

The attention to detail, can make the process smoother, increasing the chances of a successful, timely sale. It may seem obvious, doing the simple things really does help.

Preparing a house for sale involves decluttering, deep cleaning, and making minor repairs to create a welcoming, well-maintained appearance. Jayne is particularly keen to "dress" properties ready for marketing, often arriving at property photo shoots with extra plants, flowers and accessories to enhance the property's unique features and custom finishes. When showing a house for sale Jayne said, "I advise clients to focus on the finer details like fresh flowers, pleasant lighting, and a subtle, clean scent." From For Sale to Sold, Jayne is there to help every step of the way.

HULL AND EAST RIDING ADVANCED MOTORISTS - BACK TO SCHOOL

As a representative from your local road safety charity, Hull and East Riding Advanced Motorists, I have been asked to write a series of articles covering different aspects of Advanced Driving.

We are all volunteers and our group is currently celebrating our Diamond Jubilee Anniversary 1964-2024. 60 years of coaching Advanced Driving, contributing to making our local roads safer. We run a range of courses and our contact details are at the bottom of this article. Please get in touch.

The Summer holidays are now over. Order and normality will resume along with the school run which starts again for another year. Here are some useful tips which may help.

Prior to the start of term, check with the school or local council to see if the parking/dropping off arrangements have changed.

Everyone needs to be there at the same time, so the closer you get to the school the more crowded and congested the roads and pavements will be.

• Make sure everyone is in the right seat. If you use child or booster seats, make sure they are fit for purpose and correctly secured. Check out Good Egg for some top tips: www.goodeggcarsafety.com

• Pack for success. Dependent on the age of your little ones, pack some healthy treats to distract them and keep them engaged, even on a short journey.

• Leave enough time. Setting off for school can be a frustrating and rushed experience. Be sure to allow yourself enough time to get ready in the morning, as a half-eaten breakfast and badly combed hair, or forgotten PE kit, can put both you and your child in the wrong frame of mind for the start of the day.

• It's not a race. In many areas with local schools the motto is '20's plenty.' Remember that this is a limit, not a target. Always help out the school crossing patrol, and you'll probably receive a friendly wave and smile for your assistance.

• Start them while they're young. Teach your children about road safety so they know how to behave around moving traffic. Setting a good example while in the driving seat will stay with them in preparation for when they learn to drive. Parking in a safe place and walking the last few metres will not just help with congestion; it will also allow you to teach them the right way to cross a road, looking right and left, then right again for us Green Cross code users. Teaching children to use the road sensibly will save lives.

Please Remember:

• Traffic always picks up again after the school holidays so your journey will take longer and potentially be more stressful.

• Make sure the car is fuelled up and fit and ready for stop-start traffic so you have one less thing to worry about.

• Be vigilant around schools as there's likely to be children getting out of cars and not just walking to school, but maybe cycling, skateboarding or using their scooter.

The School Crossing Patrol Service

The first known patrol was Mary Hunt, a school caretaker appointed by Bath City Council to help pupils cross the road in September 1937.

RIDING THE RIDING'S LINES

The rail network of the East Riding is not extensive, we lost routes to the infamous Beeching cuts 60 years ago, but our 4 lines and 21 stations that do remain offer lots of delights for the train traveller.

Naming all the stations makes a good quiz question, you have a map to help, but very few people can get them all, fewer still have used them all. Even I, who has been a regular rail user here for over 40 years still have 1 to go - Rawcliffe, on the curious route from Goole to Leeds. The lovely tiled map in Beverley station shows the former network.

We in Beverley are fortunate to have good rail links to much of the Wolds and the coast, with half hourly trains to the north and into Hull. One commendable feature of this line are the beautifully maintained stations, where teams of volunteers tend lovely station gardens, especially at Driffield and Hutton Cranswick. That noted train user, Michael Portillo, rates Bridlington station as one of his favourites. The recently installed statue of a barrow boy is very attractive.

Some of our rural stations, such as Arram and Broomfleet, are amongst the least used in the country. Using them is, however, a delight in this age of congested roads, check the timetables carefully though as you might have a long wait for a return service. The Goole to Leeds line is often known as a ghost route, for it only has one train each way per day. A great way to explore the whole region by rail is by buying a Day Ranger ticket, Northern have a range of these on their website.

Good value single tickets can also be found on their App. I recommend these linear journeys, with a walk to link two stations. Alight at Bempton, walk through the village and up the quiet lane to the RSPB sanctuary, then walk the wonderful cliff top paths to Bridlington, returning from there. Change at Hull for the short journey to Hessle, fine views of the Humber Bridge and estuary await you on the 3 mile stroll to your return station at North Ferriby.

Hull and Beverley stations are both highly regarded for their fine architecture, each appearing in the 100 Best Railway Stations book by Simon Jenkins. The currently unused former booking hall at Hull Paragon, is a stunning gem of Edwardian tiles & woodwork. So hopefully it's all aboard this Autumn, for as the old advert put it 'let the train take the strain.'

DOVE HOUSE HOSPICE

LOCAL CARE COMPANY EXPANDS TO MEET DEMANDS OF AGEING POPULATION

Home Instead Beverley & Hull, has seen a rise in clients receiving live-in care, leading to the business taking on more care professionals to meet the demand, making it possible for families to keep their loved ones at home as their care needs increase.

While residential care was traditionally seen as the only option when people need more support, the local home care company has noted that more families are understanding that the same care needs can be met by a care professional who moves in with their loved one.

Families in and around Beverley do a lot to support older relatives, but with work and parental responsibilities, there is only so much people can do to help. Knowing that your loved one is being supported by someone who they have bonded with gives families peace of mind.

They know that someone is always there to provide care, act if any emergencies such as falls occur, and provide companionship and trips out where possible throughout the day just like a family member would.

Home Instead has been delighted to welcome seven enthusiastic new care professionals into its team over the past few months. They have moved in with clients and are providing one-to-one support, helping meet the growing demand for live-in care.

Owner of Home Instead Beverley & Hull says: "Very often, somebody's care journey begins with them receiving care at home for a few hours a week. There was a time when people would think that if care needs increase, there's no alternative to moving out of home and into residential care. I'm so pleased to see that awareness of other options, particularly live-in care, is growing.

"When our live-in care professionals move in with clients, it doesn't take long for them to become part of their family. They approach care with the same kind of compassion that their adult children would, rather than dividing their time amongst various people.

"People should have the choice to stay at home for as long as possible. Live-in care allows people to stay put, maintain independence and keep autonomy over their lives. A familiar routine is important for many of us, particularly older people, and receiving live-in care means having the flexibility to carry on doing what you've always done, for example eating at specific times, which you might not get from other care packages."

Home Instead's live-in care can involve a range of duties, from personal care such as help with dressing and bathing, to helping with household chores.

They can also take clients to appointments or social activities, helping them keep community ties.

The team at Home Instead are keen to hear from people who want to come onboard as a live-in care professional and reap the benefits of such a rewarding role.

COUNTRYSIDE MATTERS WITH SAM WALTON

How times have changed. Having been involved with farming for more years than I care to think about, it is always good to have a reminder of how things have changed.

In September I visited Wragby Show in Lincolnshire where there was a collection of old machinery, which brought back many memories of what we used to have and what they would do.

That was possible because of the enthusiasts we have who have preserved some of the old tractors as an example, many of which looked as if they were brand new and there are still many on some farms which have a use today for various jobs.

I was also pleased to see so many breeds of sheep, many of which are rare breeds now or should I say rarer on some farms.

Sheep have always played a part on both the Yorkshire and Lincolnshire Wolds but many of the breeds there would never have been on the Wolds but all thanks to enthusiasts are kept like treasures and so good to see.

What has not been so good to see this year is a lot of the damage done to a host of crops.

You will recall we had what seemed like continuous rain for quite a long period and that has done no end of damage to lots of crops with yields the same as we had when I was a lad when we used the old tractors just mentioned!

In my own case I only had one field of wheat, which was unaffected and looked like it should and similar with the barley. The rest reminded me of the yield we got when we had binders, stooking of sheaves and threshing machines, not because of the actual crop but all the bare patches in all the other fields which suffered from being so wet.

Who would be a farmer?

Most jobs are in door jobs, replacing weather stripping, or insulating pipes to prevent freezing during Winter, hanging pictures, painting handrails, and preparing the house for the festive season.

THE HISTORY OF DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME IN THE UK

Daylight Saving Time (DST), often known as "British Summer Time" (BST) in the UK, is the practice of setting clocks forward by one hour during the warmer months to extend evening daylight and conserve energy.

The history of daylight saving in the UK reflects broader global changes in society, war, and technology. From its origins in the early 20th century to its present-day practice, the development of DST in the UK highlights its social, economic, and political implications.

Early Proposals for Daylight Saving Time

The concept of daylight saving time is often credited to William Willett, a British builder and outdoors enthusiast. In 1907, Willett published a pamphlet titled The Waste of Daylight, in which he argued that people were wasting valuable daylight hours by sleeping in during the summer months. Willett's proposal suggested moving the clocks forward by 80 minutes in four incremental 20-minute shifts during April and reversing the process in September.

Willett's motivation was primarily recreational - he wanted to give people more daylight for outdoor activities - but he also saw practical benefits, such as reduced energy consumption in the evening. Despite Willett's passionate advocacy, the British government initially rejected the idea. It wasn't until the outbreak of World War I that the concept gained serious traction.

World War I and the Introduction of Daylight Saving

World War I brought significant changes to everyday life in the UK and other European countries. As the war effort demanded greater resource conservation, governments began to reconsider how energy could be saved. In 1916, Germany became the first country to officially adopt daylight saving time, primarily to reduce the consumption of coal for lighting and heating. Shortly thereafter, the UK followed suit, introducing British Summer Time on May 21, 1916. This marked the first official use of DST in the country. The introduction of DST was part of a broader effort to manage resources more efficiently during wartime. By shifting the clocks forward, the UK was able to reduce the need for artificial lighting in the evening, thus saving fuel that could be redirected to the war effort.

Post-War Developments

Following World War I, the UK continued to use British Summer Time, although the practice remained somewhat controversial. Some people argued that DST disrupted natural rhythms and caused confusion, particularly for farmers who relied on consistent daylight patterns for their work. Nonetheless, the energy-saving benefits of DST ensured its continued use, and it became a regular part of British life.

However, DST was not uniformly applied across all sectors of society. During the interwar period, some regions and industries experimented with different timings. For example, from 1925 to 1939, London operated on "Double British Summer Time" (DBST), where clocks were moved forward by two hours during the summer months, further extending evening daylight.

World War II and Double British Summer Time

During World War II, the need for energy conservation and efficiency again became paramount. In 1940, the UK government reintroduced Double British Summer Time as a wartime measure. Clocks were advanced two hours forward during the summer and remained one hour ahead of standard time throughout the winter months.

The use of DBST allowed the UK to maximise daylight hours, minimising the need for artificial lighting and helping conserve fuel during a time of extreme scarcity. This system continued until 1945, when the war ended, and the UK reverted to the more standard practice of moving clocks forward by one hour during the Summer months.

Post-War Standardisation

After World War II, the use of British Summer Time continued, but the UK experimented with various modifications. In the 1960s, during a period of energy crises, the UK government again considered changes to DST to further improve energy efficiency. From 1968 to 1971, the UK conducted an experiment in which British Summer Time was kept in place year-round, eliminating the need for the biannual clock changes. This period was referred to as "British Standard Time." However, the experiment was ultimately deemed unsuccessful due to public dissatisfaction. Many people, especially in northern parts of the UK, complained about the dark winter mornings, which often delayed children's journey to school and complicated daily routines.

In 1971, the UK returned to the practice of moving clocks forward by one hour in the summer and back by one hour in the winter. This system, which has remained in place ever since, ensures that clocks are set to Greenwich Mean Time (GMT) during the winter and British Summer Time (BST) during the warmer months.

Modern Practice and EU Standardisation

In recent decades, the UK has continued to follow the established system of GMT in winter and BST in summer, with the clocks moving forward on the last Sunday in March and backward on the last Sunday in October. The primary motivation for continuing this practice remains the same as it was in the early 20th century: to make better use of daylight and reduce energy consumption.

However, daylight saving time has been a topic of ongoing debate both in the UK and across Europe. In 1996, the European Union standardised the dates for the start and end of DST across its member states, ensuring that all countries changed their clocks on the same days each year. This brought greater consistency to the system, but also reignited discussions about the relevance of daylight saving in the modern era, especially as energy conservation became less of an issue with technological advances in lighting.

The Future of Daylight Saving in the UK

In recent years, there have been calls to abandon DST entirely or adopt permanent daylight saving. Some argue that the practice is outdated and that modern energy-efficient lighting and heating technologies have made the system redundant. Others believe that DST continues to offer benefits, particularly in terms of increasing leisure hours in the evening and improving public health by encouraging outdoor activities.

The UK's exit from the European Union reopened discussions about whether the UK should retain its current daylight saving system or adopt a new approach. While the EU has proposed ending the mandatory clock changes across Europe, allowing individual countries to decide whether to adopt permanent DST or standard time, the UK has yet to make any significant changes.

W H HALMSHAW - FIRST GLASS RESULTS REFLECTS ON YOU!

WH Halmshaw have built their name delivering a great service with great products to the Plumbing Industry, doing so for over fifty years.

Following on with their bathroom showroom and supplying to retail customers, W H Halmshaw are having phenomenal success growing their glass/glazing business to both the trade and retail customers.

Fiona Halmshaw said, "Replacing glass, double glazed panels offers numerous advantages, including improved energy efficiency, enhanced comfort, and noise reduction to the house, office or garden workshops at a fraction of the price of a complete new window frame, and for those finishing touches we make mirrors to order. We respond to customers' suggestions and put them into place".

Chris, WH Halmshaws Glass Technician commented, "Double glazed panels consist of two layers of glass with an insulating gap in between, which helps to keep indoor temperatures stable by minimising heat transfer. This reduces the need for heating and cooling, leading to lower energy bills and a smaller carbon footprint".

New double glazed panels can enhance the overall appearance of a property, improve security, and increase property value by providing a modern, updated look and a clear view and help in reducing energy bills during the colder months.

WH Halmshaws also make custom-made mirrors that offer flexibility in design and function, allowing homeowners and businesses to tailor mirrors to specific needs, whether for aesthetic purposes or practical applications.

Fiona commented, "As families look to save a few pounds, replacing those misty windows not only enhances the clear view, improves the thermal quality of the window area, and the sealed clear units are at a very affordable price, you may be surprised!"

If you are looking to enhance an area, made-to-order mirrors can be cut to fit unique spaces, such as irregular walls or custom cabinetry, enhancing the style and ambiance of a room. They can be customised with various finishes, frames, and shapes, making them perfect for creating the illusion of space, adding light, or complementing existing decor.

Over the past few years WH Halmshaws have supplied thousands of mirrors to both retail and business clients. Custom mirrors improve functionality, from vanity mirrors that provide the perfect fit for bathrooms to full-length mirrors that add a touch of luxury to bedrooms and dressing rooms.

Overall, custom mirrors and upgraded double glazed panels enhance the beauty, efficiency, and value of any property.

When it comes to glass, mirrors and glazing, WH Halmshaw is the name, follow the duck for your replacement glazing, greenhouse glass, mirrors, shelves and sealed panels saving you money is as clear as day.

CHRISTMAS MARKETS AND GIFTS FROM BEVERLEY TO BUDAPEST

Somehow this year has flown by very quickly and I find myself already thinking of the festive season. Our Christmas will be very different this year as our eldest has decided to go on a bit of an adventure incorporating Australia and the Far East. I do like my Christmas at home although I like the idea of a "twixmas" night away or a New Year hotel break.

Thinking of Christmas presents whilst I do love a new set of pyjamas, some books and perfume, I do like to open a present that you can look forward to in the year ahead. There are all sorts of options if you can be certain of your dates to book. Possibly the British Pullman luxury train days, a few nights away in the UK at a quaint cottage or a log cabin or Shepherds hut. Hotel breaks with golf and/or spa facilities.

The Winter months of January and February often offer some quite competitive deals on European city breaks - 2/3 nights away - perhaps Budapest/Prague/Rome/Dublin/Paris/Krakow/Berlin.

Another popular option is to get into the festive spirit in advance of Christmas and take in the many popular Christmas markets in Europe, so you could get in quick for this year subject to availability, or book ahead for 2025. However the Christmas markets in Birmingham have been highly recommended to me by a friend.

My favourite one (naturally) is the Beverley Festival of Christmas which is on 8th December. You could take in a 2 night break in your preferred city and soak up the festive atmosphere. Popular options include Copenhagen, Munich, Budapest, Tallin, Berlin, Prague, Vienna or Budapest.

A rather special alternative is to enjoy one of the Christmas Market themed River Cruises offered by Riviera Travel. Enchanting Rhine & Yuletide Markets River Cruise gives you 4 nights on board a 5 star ship on a full board basis and 7 included experiences. You can visit 4 Christmas markets including Rudesheim, Koblenz, Bonn and Cologne. Prices are from £1259 pp subject to change and availability.

The alternative would be the Danube Imperial Cities & Yuletide Markets which is 5 nights from £1599 pp subject to change and availability. This itinerary offers you the opportunity to explore Budapest, Vienna and Bratislava which I can assure you are stunning destinations. I really would rather like to do a river cruise although I am slightly more drawn to the summer experience.

So whilst it does seem very early to be saying this I do wish all our readers a wonderful Christmas wherever you decide to celebrate it. I hope you get to visit our fabulous Beverley Christmas market and choose some unique gifts from our selection of independent retailers too. If you feel you wanted to splash out on an experience/mini break as your Christmas gift to someone special then please do get in touch.

PARKWALK AT PARKRUN

As parkrun turns 20 years old it is ideal timing to be thankful for how far it has come. parkrun started at Bushy Park, near London. Just 13 people took part and there were a couple of volunteers. All of the participants were runners.

In that time over 2,200 parkruns have been set up in 23 countries around the world. But parkrun was never just a run.

The vision was for parkrun to be a place for everyone, no matter who they are or where they're from. An opportunity for people to be active together, outdoors, and take part however they like.

We welcome people of all abilities at Beverley Westwood parkrun. We love to cheer on the speedy folks at the front, setting course records and the like but a 5k is still a 5k no matter how long it takes you to complete it. It is still the same effort, sometimes it is even more effort to do a walking 5k in an hour or so than to whizz round in 20 mins.

I particularly like the mantra of our regular visitors on the last Saturday of the month, 5k Your Way. This is a movement set up by the Move charity to get people affected by cancer into taking part at their local parkrun in any way that they'd like to, running, walking or volunteering. I'm sure you will have seen mention of them before in the Just Beverley magazine, their representatives at Beverley are so inspiring.

If we'd thought of it first then 5k Your Way would certainly be the mantra of BWp. At Beverley Westwood parkrun our average finish time is 30:57. In the UK the average finish time is 29:21.

We are particularly proud that our time is slower than the average, this shows that our course is attended by more walkers and slower runners, making our event super inclusive for all.

parkrun may have started as a running event and I think they are a bit too far down the line for changing the name but walking at parkrun is a massive participation event every Saturday morning in its own right and you are more than welcome to join us on the start line next Saturday for a walk on our beautiful pasture.

FOX MOBILITY PREPARE FOR COLDER MONTHS

Fox Mobility in Walkergate, Beverley look ahead to Autumn and Winter to ensure their customers are prepared.

Paul said, "Preparing for Autumn and Winter is essential, for people with mobility needs. Start by ensuring your home is safe and accessible".

Keeping pathways clear of fallen leaves is a task in itself, but well worth keeping on top of. It may well be worth considering adding outdoor lighting for better visibility during shorter days. As we look indoors, it is worth making sure that rugs are secure and that walkways are clutter-free to prevent trips and falls.

Anne commented, "People who have mobility aids like walkers, canes, or wheelchairs, it is important that the inside is given the once over to identify and eliminate trip hazards, keeping the home safe".

Now is the time to have wheelchairs and mobility scooters inspected and serviced to ensure they're in good working order. When preparing to go out and about to enjoy our beautiful town, or to visit the shops, have a trip to the countryside, keep warm clothing and blankets easily accessible, and consider investing in thermal wear to stay comfortable.

Paul added, "Plan ahead for cooler weather so you do not get caught out, and enjoy the changing conditions".

IN THE PICTURE WITH JOSH

With the darker nights at this time of year it means there are plenty of opportunities for night photography, as well as the stunning sunrises and sunsets through the Autumn, and with there still been a lot of solar activity it's worth keeping an eye on the Northern Lights forecast as well.

I've been spending some time on the Westwood on an evening to capture some of the amazing sunsets which I think always look more vibrant and colourful at this time of year, like this shot silhouetting the Black Mill and trees just before the sun dipped below the horizon.

It's also a great location to watch the moonrise and I was lucky enough to get these shots recently on a very calm night, including one of the Moon above the Black Mill which I'd wanted to take for a while now.

Due to the brightness of the moon, you can usually take photos without a tripod or any other special kit, so it makes it one of the easiest astronomical sights to photograph.

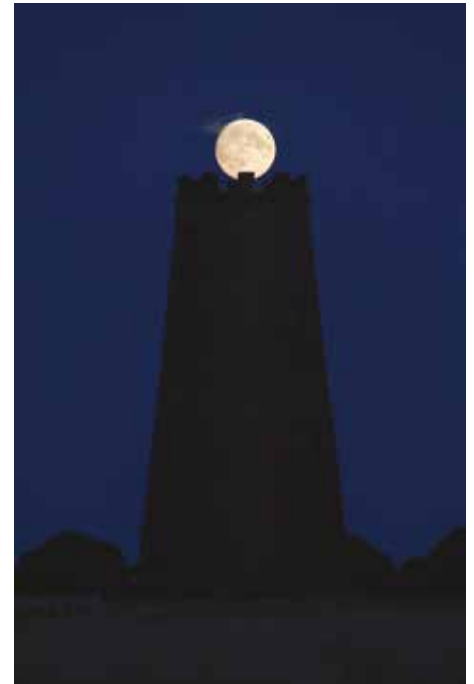

Another great location for night photography is the Humber Bridge, while it's a bit trickier to capture stars and Northern Lights due to the light from the city, the bridge itself is a great subject and long exposure shots usually reveal some great reflections in the Humber as well as light trails from the traffic.

It can also look quite atmospheric, sometimes shrouded in mist or at dusk with a beautiful orange sky.

You can find more information about my work and full portfolios on my website and my social media pages and if you have any questions don't hesitate to get in touch.

WILSON WHEELS - KEEP THE WHEELS TURNING

Preparing for colder weather before cycling involves a few key steps to stay safe and comfortable:

Dress in layers

Start with a moisture-wicking base layer to keep dry, followed by insulating layers and a windproof outer shell. Wear thermal gloves, a hat or headband under your helmet, and warm socks to protect extremities.

Maintenance

Check your bike's tyres; consider switching to wider, grippier tyres for better traction on wet or icy roads. Lubricate your chain regularly to prevent rust.

Safety

Ensure your lights are working properly for darker mornings and evenings. Wear high visibility clothing, "Be Seen, Be Safe"!!!

Plan routes

Choose your route, plan ahead, to avoid icy patches and wind-exposed areas. Think safety at all times.

Nathan commented, "It is always worth remembering it is easy to stay warm then to get warm when you are out on the bike, as the sun drops the temperature drops. Don't get caught out".

ERT - THE HIGHWAYMAN

This Autumn, to celebrate 10 years of the East Riding Theatre, John Godber brings his brand new play 'The Highwayman' to Beverley.

It's 1769 and Yorkshire's population has exploded, the races at York are packed, the New Theatre in Hull is thriving, and the Spa towns are full. Everyone is flocking north, every ale house is packed with the great and the bad. Yorkshire is the place to be; a region drunk on making money, social climbing, gambling and gin, but with wealth in abundance, the temptation is great.

The Highwayman is a thrilling theatrical adventure coming from the region where Turpin was caught and Nevison made his great leap! Godber's Highwayman is visceral, venal and very funny. History has never felt so modern, theft never more attractive. Featuring a collection of local East Yorkshire actors including Jo Patmore, Emilio Encinoso-Gil and Matheea Ellerby, as well as music from Ruby Macintosh (Ruby and the Vinyl), this new show is set to be an exciting and hilarious adventure this Autumn!

Tickets on sale now from the East Riding Theatre, the show runs 25th Oct- 9th Nov.

BEVERLEY AC - CELEBRATING FIRSTS AND LASTS!

September saw the Club celebrating a lot of firsts as well as lasts! During the month, the Club added to its "green" commitment when members took part in the first Plogging! event in conjunction with The Wombles of Beverley.

This initiative has been introduced as part of the Club's commitment to be a "greener" club and saw 10 members meet near the racecourse and spend a couple of hours picking up litter, followed by a social jog around the Westwood.

Club member and Organiser, Lucy Stamford, commented on the success of the event. "The morning was deemed a great success with most people turning up on foot or cycling which was great to see, but to every person who turned up in whatever mode of transport, thank you! And you may be very surprised to see how much litter was collected from the area around the racecourse. By the time we got back from a jog around the Westwood afterwards, all the litter had been taken away by the council!"

Inspired by the seniors, the juniors did their own pick near the parkrun start before the start of their Sunday morning training session.

Huge congratulations to two of our members who completed two personal firsts this month running their first official marathon, the Grim up North, Hornsea Marathon up and down the old railway line.

Hollie Oxtoby and Chris Gibson completed the event in 7:02:24. This followed their first "unofficial" marathon, which they undertook as training, the Hell On The Humber endurance race across the Humber Bridge, where they completed 32 miles in 8:50:00.

And now a last! The 35th Smuggler's Trod event took place this month and may well be the final running of this popular challenge along the Yorkshire coast. Sam Allen was the first Beverley runner to complete the Long (26 mile) route and was also first lady to finish in a time of 4:46:00. Lucy Stamford in 5:23:00.

Completing the Short (17 mile) route was Jackie Edwards in 4:06:00, Ivor Roberts in 6:15:00, and Mark Oglesby and Frank Harrison both finished in 7:34:00. And not forgetting a special well done and congratulations to Ivor for whom this was the 25th time he has completed this iconic event!

Lots of half marathon successes to celebrate as well! The iconic Great North Run Half Marathon saw a great turn out from Beverley. First Beverley runner to cross the finish line and in 42nd place overall was James Johnson in 01:08:46, followed by Steve Babb (01:20:22), Paul Clark (01:35:05), Mark Lorch (01:39:39), Patrick Marshall (01:43:05), Lucy Berriman (01:47:25), Ben Atkinson (01:50:54), Jake Williams (2:00:44), Carrie Watts (02:11:39), Jo Rowland (02:12:31), Carl Hailstone (02:20:38), Mila Ramos (02:21:06), Linda Wright (02:25:03), Usha Chapman (02:34:53), Cat Williamson (02:47:29).

New members, whatever your age and fitness level, are always welcome and further details about the membership and what the Club has to offer to its members can be found on the Club's website: www.beverleyathleticclub.co.uk
